Comments	With the most heartfelt gratitude and deep appreciation, I would like to thank the Japan Epidemiological Association for selecting me to receive the Travel Grant award this year. This conference provides an international platform to the young researchers like me to share their research findings with the prominent epidemiologists in Japan and around the globe. It was indeed an excellent opportunity for me to attend the 30 th Annual Scientific Meeting of the JEA in Kyoto, Japan as an oral presenter. Furthermore, not only did I enjoy the presentations covering diverse aspects of epidemiology, my perspective on the ongoing research in the field broadened. These enriching experiences not only helped deepen my knowledge but also increased the enthusiasm for participating in more research in the near future. Over again, I would like to show my gratitude to the Japan Epidemiological Association for their generosity and wholehearted hospitality. I will always treasure the memories of my first visit to Japan and will be looking forward to attending the JEA scientific meeting every year.
