

Bylaws on the Election of Delegates and Board Members

(Purpose)

Article 1 This Bylaw is based on Article 5, clause 4 and 21 of the Articles of Association, and lays out matters necessary for the appropriate election of Delegates and Executive Board Members.

(Regionalization)

Article 2 Delegates and Executive Board Members will be elected from the regional divisions described in Table 1.

Article 3 The regional division of a Voter and Eligible Candidate is decided based on the place of business on the specified date provided in the Rules regarding the Election of Delegates. If a member is not employed, the region will be decided by place of living.

(Number of Delegates and Executive Board Members)

Article 4 (1) The number of Delegates and Executive Boards elected from each regional division will be suggested by the Election Administration Committee and decided by the Executive Board prior to each election.

(2) The number of Delegates from each regional division will be calculated to be appropriately one in ten ordinary members in the region.

(3) The Executive Board Members will consist of 20 members, including 15 elected members and five members nominated by the President (hereafter called Nomination Executive Board Member). At least one member will be allotted to each region. The rest of the elected members will be allotted by highest average method to represent the number of ordinary members eligible for voting and election.

(4) If the number of Delegates from each regional division cannot be decided by the method specified in article 4 clause 3, the chairperson will draw lots in the Election Administration for a decision.

(Election Administration Committee)

- Article 5
- (1) The administration of matters relating to elections laid out in this Bylaw will be administered by the Election Administration Committee.
 - (2) Five members will be chosen from ordinary members by the Executive Board, and delegated by the President.
 - (3) The chair of the committee will be elected among the committee members.
 - (4) Term of office is two years, but reappointment is not prohibited.
 - (5) If a position becomes vacant, a replacement will be elected and delegated as per article 5 clause 2. The replacing member will serve the remaining term of the outgoing member.
 - (6) Office work for the committee will be handled by the Secretariat of Japan Epidemiological Association.
 - (7) Any other matters necessary for the administration of the committee, other than those laid out above, will be decided by the committee.

(Eligibility for Voting and Election)

Article 6 Those eligible for voting (hereafter called Voters) are those who are ordinary members since the year before the end of term of the current Delegates, and those who have made full payment of their membership fees of the previous year by the deadline decided by the Election Administration Committee.

Article 7 Those eligible for election (hereafter called Eligible Candidates) are those who have been ordinary members over the past 4 consecutive years or more, and those who have made full payment of their membership fees of the previous year by the deadline decided by the Election Administration Committee. Those who were exempted from the membership fee in the first year, need to make full payment of their membership fees from the following year. However, those who become 63 by December 31st of the year of election will lose eligibility for election.

(Election of Delegates)

Article 8 The Election Administration Committee shall announce the election for Delegates by June 1st of the last year of term of the Delegates.

Article 9 Those who wish to run for Delegate shall submit a written notice to the Election Administration Committee by the designated date.

Article 10 Chairperson of the Election Administration Committee must prepare a list of candidates by regional division and notify the ordinary members within the relevant regional division, stating the address and contact information of the Election Administration Committee, the number of Delegates to be elected, and the due date for submission of votes.

Article 11 Delegates will be elected among the candidates within a given regional division by secret vote of the Voters in the relevant regional division. However, there will be no voting if the numbers of candidates are equal to the numbers of Delegates to be elected as laid out in Article 10.

Article 12 The method of electing Delegates is provided in the "Rules regarding the Election of Delegates." Vote counting will be handled by the Election Administration Committee.

Article 13 (1) Candidates with most votes will be elected by descending order until the number of Delegates required in each regional division is filled. Those who come next in order will be back up candidates for Delegates. Should there be a tie, the elected candidate and the back up candidate will be decided by measures predetermined by the Election Administration Committee.

(2) If a position for Delegate representing a regional division becomes vacant, the Election Administration Committee may assign the back up candidate of the relevant regional division. In such cases, the Delegate will serve the remaining term of office of the outgoing Delegate.

(3) If a Delegate is no longer qualified as an ordinary member, the person will be no longer qualified as a Delegate.

Article 14 If a Delegate changes their regional division, the Delegate will represent the new regional division for their term of office.

Article 15 If any question arises regarding the assignment of Delegates, the Election Administration Committee shall be in charge of its disposition.

(Election of Executive Board Members)

Article 16 The Executive Board Members shall be elected among the Delegates of each regional division by secret vote with single entry.

Article 17 Those who wish to run for Executive Board Members shall submit a written notice to the Election Administration Committee by the designated due date.

Article 18 Chairperson of the Election Administration Committee must prepare a list of candidates by regional division and notify the Delegates within the relevant regional division, stating the address and contact information of the Election Administration Committee, the number of Executive Board Members to be elected, and the due date for submission of votes.

Article 19 Vote counting will be handled by the Election Administration Committee.

Article 20 (1) Candidates with most votes will be elected by descending order until the number of Executive Board Members required in each regional division is filled. Those who come next in order will be back up candidates for Executive Board Member. Should there be a tie, the elected candidate and the back up candidate will be decided by measures predetermined by the Election Administration Committee.

(2) If a position for Executive Board Member becomes vacant, the Election Administration Committee may assign the back up candidate. In such cases, the Executive Board Member will serve the remaining term of office of the out going Executive Board Member.

(3) Executive Board Members who changed their regional division will no longer be qualified for Executive Board Member.

(4) Nomination Executive Board Members will be selected and nominated by the President from the Delegates.

(5) If a position of Nomination Executive Board becomes vacant, the President may choose a replacement from the list of Delegates.

(6) Executive Board Members who no longer qualifies as ordinary member shall no longer qualify as Executive Board Member.

Article 21 If any question arises regarding the assignment of Executive Board Members, the Election Administration Committee shall be in charge of its disposition.

(Election of President)

Article 22 The method of selecting a candidate of the President is provided in the "Rules regarding the Election of the President."

(Election of Auditors)

Article 23 (1) Candidacy of an Auditor requires recommendations of three Delegates and consent of the said person. Election will be held among all Delegates by secret vote with single entry.

(2) The Election Administration Committee shall notify all Delegates of the names, personal history, and convictions or reasons for recommendation of the candidates for Auditors and administer the election. The two candidates with most votes will be elected, and the person next in order will be a backup Auditor. Should there be a tie, the candidate and back up will be decided by measures predetermined by the Election Administration Committee.

(3) If a position of Auditor becomes vacant, the Election Administration Committee may replace the position by assigning the back up Auditor. In such cases, the Auditor will serve the remaining term of the out going Auditor.
